In today's life, in today's standard of education, the most attention is paid to learning languages. The first President I. Karimov also expressed the opinion that "if children do not learn to think freely, the education provided will inevitably be ineffective." Therefore, we should encourage children to think freely and enrich their worldview.

The method of SELF-EDUCATION is an effective means of improving students' self-management and active participation in the activities of various student bodies.

The method of SELF-ASSESSMENT is a type of activity aimed at evaluating one's personality based on the analysis of behavior, qualities, and behavior. Student self-assessment is difficult, but they can be adequately prepared for it. For this, the student should understand his duty, have a reason for education and education, that is, he should want to be educated, strive for self-improvement. This method helps them to assess themselves objectively.

The method of ENCOURAGEMENT is a method of positively evaluating the activity and behavior of students, expressing confidence in it, cheering up and supporting them.

The teacher will have to constantly monitor the changes in his students, be attentive to them. Only then, students will not consider themselves to be careless chlodics. Thinking that they are always in the spotlight, they try to develop and move forward. A teacher should be fair to all students in the community. Then students will respect their teacher, believe that they will evaluate knowledge correctly. Teachers thus find their place in their community [1].

The aim of this is to open the way for students to acquire more knowledge and conquer many new knowledge. In this regard, methods of providing information to students through various modern technologies are being organized in the field of education. . Of course, we can see the result of this from the achieved results

In particular, in our country, the Russian language is considered as a foreign language, it is considered as a second mother tongue. The reason is that during the Second World War, many Russians were evacuated to our country, and thus they saw our country as their motherland, and their language came with them. that's why there are many Russian speakers. The attention to the Russian language is very low in remote areas, as it is not five times the number of hands, the best solution to prevent this is to attract young professionals who are developing now.

Problems in learning Russian as a foreign language:

1. Mistakes in pronunciation;
2. Spend less time on language learning;
3. Little attention is paid to the Russian language in schools and some universities;

Solutions to the problems that arise when learning Russian as a foreign language:

1. Solutions to lose the accent during pronunciation;
2. Spending more time on language learning and using it effectively;
3. Pay sufficient attention to foreign languages in schools and universities and attract qualified specialists.

Mistakes in pronunciation. It is known that Russian is a foreign language to us, so there are many mistakes in pronunciation when speaking in relation to the language we are constantly speaking.

Spend less time on language learning. One of the most painful situations today is that the young generation is wasting a lot of time wrapped in spider webs.

Little attention is paid to the Russian language in schools and some universities. If attention is paid to foreign languages in schools in cities and villages, the conditions are different. Such cases require more research on their own.

Solutions to lose the accent during pronunciation foreign language (Russian) - why should you learn Russian? I will answer the following question: "Russian language is a "language of communication" and it is necessary and important to learn it." Why?

Because I like how people in the world communicate with each other. Have you ever wondered if Russian is the most popular language in the world? After all, an international language should not be complicated. To lose the accent in pronunciation, it is necessary to listen to voice and audio lessons in this language more and to communicate more with people who can have a perfect conversation in this language.

Spending more time on language learning and using it effectively. A person who is learning a language should concentrate all his attention on learning the language by concentrating his time and thoughts on idle things.

Pay sufficient attention to foreign languages in schools and universities and attract qualified specialists. A specialist is a person who has special knowledge and experience in a certain field, a specialist [2]. Now, keeping up with the times, it is necessary to attract people who are experts in their profession, and they can interest students in every field.

In conclusion, just as there are difficulties and problems in everything, we can also face such situations when learning a foreign language. Education is the most important term after education. If you get into it and study it, you will understand that education and upbringing are inseparable concepts.

Crops grow with water,

With education - a person [3].

Our goal is to learn foreign languages perfectly and deliver new technologies to the future generation.
