Annotatsiya: In the given article the increasing role of tourism, due to its development in the recent years, in learning foreign languages, particularly the English language is discussed.

Kalit so'z: communicative knacks, crosscultural communication, cultural boundaries, travelling abroad.

Nowadays life demands knowing a lot of things and in this fast-paced world we wish to go with the times. That's why more and more people apprehend the value of foreign languages, particularly English, as it is regarded as one of the most widespread and widely-used languages in the world. Some of us study it merely in schools, colleges and universities, others attend different courses. And only a small number put their utmost to improve it with the aim of talking fluently and utilize it in work, studies or everyday life. So we try to find the fruitful ways of enhancing our speaking competency and common knowledge of this language. Nowadays there is a great variety of means to achieve such intentions, and one and all can single out the best one. Looking for some special way to upgrade our English, we draw on a great number of methods, which have their pros and cons. And sole travelling abroad and good practice could back us up to comprehend that it's the first and foremost means of enhancing English communicative knacks. According to the recent studies, in 2008, approximately 56% of Europeans were bilingual and 38% of them spoke English. Experts predict that by 2020, 30-35% of the Asian population (versus today's about 8-10%) will use English daily. Within the limits of the world civilization process, scientific-technical progress, means of transport development, forthcoming technological possibilities, and also greater opening up of limits between states, the modern person has received unlimited possibilities to contact with representatives of other cultures. It means that in present conditions crosscultural communication is carried out in different spheres of human life: economic, political, military cooperation, different cultural events (exhibitions, festivals and so on), studying abroad, fashion, sport and tourism (travelling). An individual as a bearer of definite culture is one of the key channels of crosscultural communication. That's why according to one of the outstanding authors.: "tourism phenomenon as one of the main forms of cross-cultural communication deserves special attention". In modern Uzbekistan, the amendment of the tourism issue as a cross cultural communication phenomenon represents great scientific and practical interest. Not long ago, Uzbek nation possessed the possibility of make their direction to a foreign soil without difficulty; it led to tourism development. The trivial of this topic is confirmed by the fact that tourism began to be considered by Russian and foreign authors more often. The role of travelling abroad in the modern world is enormous, as we have the amenities not only to have a rest, but to enrich ourselves with cultural, historical and communicative plans. Tourism is one of the leading and most dynamic fields of the world economy. It was recognized as the economic phenomenon of the century for quick growth rate and it's becoming the most important sector over recent years. To the view of some authorities: "In many countries tourism plays a significant role in actuation of foreign -trade balance. It influences greatly such key fields of the economy as transport, communication, construction, agriculture and the production of consumer goods, in other words, it plays the role of special accelerator of social economic development". This means that the role of tourism is irrefutably important. Therefore, travelling abroad can be considered one of the best means of enhancing English communicative skills. People are crossing national and cultural boundaries more easily and more frequently than ever before. This is especially true for people participating in short term stays for business, travel and tourism. Furthermore, taking a trip abroad and converse with native speakers to hear their particular accent and vernacular and to practice everyday speech patterns. Remembering to use multiple resources will provide greater satisfaction and accelerate your progress in English. The idea struck us that we could go abroad, travel to Europe or even America and try to merge into another culture and consequently, improve English, having more practice. It is a fact that it is impossible to conceive of a person being communicatively competent without being linguistically competent. In order for communication to be successful, learners need to know the appropriate social conventions. And in order to develop communicative skills it's important to come face-to-face with another culture, to be part of it even for a short period of time. Only travelling abroad can help you achieve this aim. Being acquainted with new traditions the first or two weeks will probably be some of the toughest weeks of your life, but also the most rewarding. Especially, if they have a desire to travel with the purpose of learning a language will not only enrich their day-to-day travel experiences, as well as the daily necessity of interacting with local people has been the impetus they need to advance in English. but meaning that they come home with a new skill, ready for their next worldly adventure or future job application.

To put in a nutshell, Learning English through following new trends and travelling abroad makes people willing to learn the language, develop their ability to speak fluently and advocate them to overcome the language divide. Therefore, the aim of this article is to detect the best way of enhancing communicative skills in English and prove that travelling abroad can be considered one of the means of speaking skills development.
